The Value of Radio Advertising

Constant local presence. Property and livestock decisions are made slowly, often over months of consideration. With 677 spots across 173 broadcast days, Elders Batemans Bay stayed present through that entire decision window rather than appearing in short bursts.

Trust in regional markets. Local radio carries high trust in regional communities, where the voices on air are part of daily life. Sponsoring an established programme like This Week in Music associates your agency with that familiarity rather than with interruptive advertising.

Reaches people on the land. Audio reaches listeners in the car, in the shed and in the paddock — places where screens are impractical. For landholders and farmers moving between properties and saleyards, radio is one of the few media that travels with them.

Twin-station coverage. Delivery was split evenly between 2EC Bega and Power FM, at 338 and 339 spots respectively. That balance extended your message across both station audiences rather than concentrating it in one place.

Scale at a local level. Radio reaches around 17 million Australians each week, and that national reach is delivered market by market. Your investment bought presence in the Eurobodalla and South Coast, where your buyers and sellers actually are.

Summary & Recommendations

Across January to September 2026, Elders Batemans Bay delivered 677 spots over 173 broadcast days for an investment of $15,240.00 ex GST. That comprised 508 paid spots and 169 bonus spots provided at no charge, worth $8,957.00 at the published ratecard of $53.00 per spot. Total ratecard value of the schedule reached $35,881.00, an effective cost of $22.51 per spot — 58% below ratecard, and a return multiple of 2.35x.

- 1. Extend the full calendar. September 2026 carried 38 spots against the 80 delivered in most other months. Extending the next sponsorship through the final quarter would close that gap and maintain presence across spring listings and end-of-year livestock activity.
- 2. Weight to selling seasons. Consider lifting spot volumes ahead of peak property listing and livestock trading periods, funded by trimming quieter weeks. The same annual budget can work harder when it leans into your busiest trading months.
- 3. Build on Drive and Breakfast. Breakfast and Drive carried 143 and 117 spots respectively — the times landholders are most often travelling. A modest reweighting toward these dayparts in the next schedule would put you in front of people on the road.
- 4. Rotate creative messaging. With a schedule running nine months, refreshing copy each quarter keeps the message current — property listings, clearing sales, seasonal farm supplies. Distinct messages for 2EC Bega and Power FM would also let you tailor by district.
